

Frequently Asked Questions -- Minimum Investments

Last U

Q1: What is the minimum investment for mutual funds?

The minimum initial investment for most of our mutual funds is $5,000 for non-registered accounts. For registered accounts (RRSP, TFSA, RESP), the minimum initial investment is reduced to $1,000. Subsequent contributions require a minimum of $500 for non-registered accounts and $100 for registered accounts. Some specialty funds may have higher minimums -- check the specific fund's product sheet.

Q2: What is the minimum investment for GICs?

The minimum investment for GICs is $1,000 for all terms. There is no maximum limit, though CDIC coverage is limited to $100,000 per depositor per category. GICs can be purchased in both registered and non-registered accounts.

Q3: What is the minimum investment for ETFs?

ETFs are traded on the stock exchange, so the minimum purchase is one unit (share). Unit prices vary by ETF -- our Canadian Dividend ETF (CDIV) currently trades at approximately $32.50 per unit. There is no minimum number of units required, though trading commissions may make very small purchases uneconomical.

Q4: Can I set up automatic contributions?

Yes. Our Pre-Authorized Contribution (PAC) plan allows you to set up automatic weekly, bi-weekly, or monthly contributions to mutual funds. The minimum PAC amount is $50 per contribution. PAC plans are not available for ETFs or GICs. Contact your relationship manager or set up a PAC plan through online banking.

Q5: Are the minimums different for the Managed Portfolio Program?

Yes. The Managed Portfolio Program requires a minimum account balance of $100,000. This program provides discretionary portfolio management, automatic rebalancing, and access to institutional-class fund units with lower MERs. The management fee for the program is 1.00% of assets under management, billed quarterly.

This FAQ is provided for general information only and does not constitute financial, tax, or legal advice. Product availability, fees, and terms are subject to change without notice. For personalized guidance, please consult your relationship manager.