

Frequently Asked Questions -- Redemptions & Transfers

Last U

Q1: How do I redeem (sell) my mutual fund units?

You can redeem mutual fund units through online banking, by calling our Investment Service Centre at 1-800-555-0199, or by visiting your branch. Redemption requests received before 4:00 PM ET on a business day are processed at that day's closing net asset value (NAV). Requests received after 4:00 PM are processed at the next business day's NAV. Proceeds are typically deposited to your bank account within 1-3 business days.

Q2: Can I redeem my GIC before maturity?

Non-redeemable GICs cannot be redeemed before maturity under any circumstances. Redeemable GICs can be cashed after a minimum holding period of 30 days, but early redemption may result in a reduced interest rate. Cashable GICs typically earn a lower rate than non-redeemable GICs of the same term. Check your GIC certificate or product sheet for specific terms.

Q3: What happens when my GIC matures?

You will receive a maturity notice approximately 15 days before your GIC matures. You can choose to renew the GIC for a new term, transfer the proceeds to another investment, or deposit the funds into your bank account. If no instructions are received by the maturity date, the GIC will automatically renew for the same term at the then-current posted rate.

Q4: How do I transfer my investments from another institution?

To transfer investments from another institution (transfer-in), complete Form T2033 (for registered accounts) or our Account Transfer Request form (for non-registered accounts). Your relationship manager can initiate the process. Transfers typically take 2-4 weeks to complete. We will reimburse transfer-out fees charged by the sending institution up to $150 per account for transfers of $25,000 or more.

Q5: Can I transfer between my own accounts (e.g., RRSP to TFSA)?

Transfers between different account types are treated as a withdrawal from the source account and a contribution to the destination account. For example, transferring from an RRSP to a TFSA requires a taxable RRSP withdrawal and uses TFSA contribution room. Transfers within the same account type at the same institution (e.g., TFSA to TFSA) are processed as direct transfers and do not affect contribution room. Consult your advisor for tax implications before making inter-account transfers.

Q6: What is the process for a RRIF conversion?

You must convert your RRSP to a RRIF by December 31 of the year you turn 71. You can convert earlier if you wish to begin receiving income. The minimum annual withdrawal amount is determined by a prescribed percentage based on your age (or your spouse's age if elected). Your relationship manager can help you set up scheduled withdrawals on a monthly, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual basis.

Q7: Are there any restrictions on how frequently I can trade?

There are no restrictions on ETF trading frequency, though standard commissions apply. For mutual funds, excessive short-term trading (buying and redeeming the same fund multiple times within a 30-day period) may result in the application of the 2% short-term trading fee and possible restrictions on future purchases. The bank monitors for market-timing activity in accordance with regulatory requirements.

This FAQ is provided for general information only and does not constitute financial, tax, or legal advice. Product availability, fees, and terms are subject to change without notice. For personalized guidance, please consult your relationship manager.